Hiking, General Comments

Hiking ratings: The higher the number, the harder the hike. Considered are length, altitude gain, and difficulty of terrain. Up to 4.0 is easy, 4.5-6.5 sort of middling, 7.0 and up is difficult and registration with the leader is necessary. Call leaders during the week preceding a hike if rated 7.0 or higher. For overnight trips you may call as soon as the Rambler is out. Since backpack groups are limited, it is important to cancel if you can't keep a date, to give others a chance.

Solar Energy on the Move

By Susan Schott

Why should someone get up at the ungodly hour of 3:00 a.m. to hike to Sunset Peak? Why, to give a tribute to mother sun, who is the ultimate source of all energy and whose rays can warm and strengthen your spirit. We plan to be on the peak at sunrise. Be sure to wear sturdy boots, some warm clothing, bring a flashlight and be on time at the mouth of Little Cottonwood Canyon.

Later on that day everything under the sun will be going on at Liberty Park--from speakers, presentations, displays to an energy puppet show. The main Salt Lake City Library will host some interesting and informative activities during the week:

A. Speakers at night

1. June 18--Greenhouses/Wally Adams
2. June 19--Passive Solar/Bill Ingram
3. June 20--Energy Simulator
4. June 21--Greenhouses/Norm Barnes

B. Energy Puppet Show/afternoon, Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday

C. Energy Films

In addition to the events on June 23, a festival will be held on June 24 at Park City. This will be a day to get out and enjoy the sun, listen to some good music (The Nitty Gritty Dirt Band and Leo Kottke), and see some interesting things people have made to put solar energy to use in their own homes. For more details contact the Utah Energy Hotline, 581-5424, or 1-800/662-3633, toll free.

From the Entertainment Director

By Phyllis Haas

A special thanks to all the people who responded to my plea for help with the Fund Raiser Dinner. Both men and women cooked, decorated, and cleaned up after the party. Some even cooked who were unable to attend.

Many are called but few choose to help out in the service-oriented areas of the Wasatch Mountain Club. Many people benefit from the efforts of a very few people. This year a real emphasis will be made on recruiting volunteers to help or host the parties and ski socials scheduled by the club. It is a fun experience, and you receive lots of assistance from the entertainment director. It is an opportunity to be creative and spontaneous and loved by all. Close friendships develop among people who serve.

"But I'm too busy." Isn't everyone? If many help, the parties will be a success with minimum hassle. Most of the members of the club are extremely involved in work, home, school, and the community, or all four. Helping isn't a very time-consuming task. Most parties are kept fairly simple. Getting volunteers and coordinating are the major challenges for a party coordinator. Please call or write if you are interested in helping out: Phyllis Haas, 717 Ninth Avenue, Salt Lake City, Utah 84103, 534-1262.

Lodge Fund-Raiser THANKS!

TRIP Talk talk talk talk ta

The Gourmet Ski Tour

By Gale Dick

It's always useful to know whether the gods are smiling or frowning. They're usually smiling. At least they were smiling on the Gourmet Ski Tour on April 22, which enjoyed wonderful weather (for a welcome change). It is widely believed that this is a sort of Groundhog Day--like augury of a long summer, ideal for climbing, hiking, and river running. Libations were poured to clinch the matter.

The Gourmet Ski Tour traditionally goes no farther than the food and drink can be carried. This year we made it all the way to the stream crossing where the Red Pine trail leaves White Pine. Out of packs and pockets emerged dolmatoes, feta, kiwi fruit, mangoes, various fine cheeses, a whole pineapple, fresh strawberries, cream cheese brownies, San Martin cherry wine, artichokes stuffed with mushrooms cockaigne, gaucamole, feta cheese salad, a good stout Greek retsina wine, a cheese fondue bubbling in a pot, fruit salads, a coconut (opened with a stone from White Pine Creek), a quiche Lorraine, apple cider mold with chutney dressing, fruit in wine sauce, shredded chicken marinated in sherry, smoked oysters wrapped in thin pancakes, green chili burritos with hot pickles, strawberry shortcake with whipped cream, old-fashioned pickled eggs and beets, knishes covered with sesame seeds.

Rather disappointingly, there were no peanut butter sandwiches on Wonder Break! Bob and Barbara vied with Joel and Karil in the silver, linen, and crystal sweepstakes. Rare vintages vied with Thunderbird. In fact, Wick played the unforgiveable trick of switching the contents of a bottle of Thunderbird and a bottle of Wente Chenin Blanc. Some were fooled by this and lost their gourmet credentials on the spot. A fine fast toboggan run was negotiated with plastic garbage bags and ensolite pads. Paul showed us how to do an elegant telemark.

There was some discussion of making next year's tour a black tie affair with wine stewards and live music. Joel promised to bring home-made Twinkies. It was also suggested that banquet tables and chairs be carved out of the snow in advance. Where will these excesses end?

Golden Spike Adventure

By John Gottman

Survival--the more I do this, the more I'm convinced that surviving will be good enough. I don't know if I'll try it or not. My leg may blow out near the end.

These words were not spoken on a climb or shooting big water. They were made about an event to take place on flat terrain in moderate temperatures with plenty of aid stations and medical help--the Golden Spike Marathon, run into Brigham City on May 5, 1979. For me it was more intimidating than my most ambitious winter climbs. Ron "Hard Man" Weber was ready to drop out after suffering an injury which cost him two weeks of training. John Mason was also doubtful after an injury. Bob Becherer was right on his training schedule but was also afraid of the last six miles of mystery. It was our first marathon.

We followed the advice of Don Schultz, a front-runner, by lining up at the back of the pack. We were all figuring on about nine-minute miles. The gun fired and we moved off slowly in high spirits, joking and talking as we ran. We were analyzing our injuries and carefully holding down our speed.

Our support team consisted of Ann Cheves, Dorothy Wiskowski, Bill Shepard, and Jim Williams who rode their bicycles along the route providing companionship and much-appreciated encouragement. They were also to monitor our times and provide water during the final critical miles.

The first 15 miles passed uneventfully and the mountains east of Brigham City beckoned us on. We were breathing easily. Weber and I were stubbornly holding our pace and Mason and Becherer were five to eight minutes ahead on their plans. Steve French was about to cross the finish line. The light head wind and rising temperature were more noticeable and the conversation dropped off.

I was feeling good at 19 miles and decided to run in very carefully. Ron held back and I caught Bob, who was also holding it down. At the 23 mile mark, Mason had slowed due to cramping in his previously injured left calf. We all kept going, however, mixing in more walking during the final few miles. One by one we crossed the finish line to the cheers of people who didn't know us.

Steve Swanson, Jim Byrne, and long-time runner Bob Everson were also in the event. There may have been other WMC members also.

All of us found the event very humbling but fun, exciting, and highly rewarding. We plan to continue our running and are cautiously considering future races.

Mount Olympus

By Leslie Cutler

Yes, Virginia, there are initiation rites: having to write up the trip report before you are even a member. Zeus tried his best to blow us off the top of his mountain (Mt. Olympus to the nonliterary) on Saturday, May 5, but did not succeed. Blister Hill earned its name, the gully had snow near the top (the "shorties" post-holed to mid-thigh), the couloir was clear except for other "ascenters," and the view was wonderful, as always. Where were you all? We had a great day. Total time: five hours.

Participants: John Riley (leader), Duncan Foley, Marvel Norberg, Leslie Cutler, John Olson, Carolyn Andree, and Rip Johnson.

The Night Assault of Grandeur Peak

By Phyllis Haas

Friday, May 11, was the infamous moonlight hike up Grandeur. We gathered in the Olympus Hills lot at 8:00 p.m. We piled into various cars and hit the road to Millcreek Canyon. Unfortunately so did the police. We were stopped at the mouth of the canyon for vehicle registration and license checks. Fortunately the drivers were legal, and no one else got caught. We regrouped at Church Fork and started up. The group consisted of 21 people in various stages of fitness, one a recent invalid (we all admired him), and two dogs. It was a beautiful climb on a full moon night. We gathered at the top and ate cookies. About halfway down one of the dogs decided to return to the peak. Luckily we were able to "head him off at the pass." All were safely down by 12:30 a.m. I would give the names of the participants but since I was one of the "out of shape" people, by the time I got down most everyone had already gone home. It was a fun, companionable hike.

Dale Summit

By George Healy

Four and twenty hikers, and an ancient dog
Puffed and panted up the rocky peak of Dale.

There they sat and marvelled: See, there is no smog!

Clear and sparkling lay the salty city's vale.

After talk and sustenance, using Trudy's new cut trail

Went to Healy's bar and grill, where wassail did prevail.

Thus the hike was ended, a good time had by all

And plans were laid for a repeat, later, in the Fall.

Assembling amid the jungle noise of Hogle Zoo, we all seemed to have the same thought for the first hike of the season: WOW! That sure is high, as we gazed at the towering summit of BB. Duly warned by our leader about the severe radiation hazard we may encounter in "This Is The Place" park, we trooped off. (Ever wonder why the monument glowed at night?) Keeping a watchful eye for eerie glows and snap, crackle, pop sounds, we successfully traversed the park. UP, UP, UP the south ridge we ambled, some puffing more than others. A herd of about 23 deer grazed and agilely sprang along ahead on the opposite hillside. Quail frequently startled us with their burst into a gliding flight. At the summit, after crossing immense snow fields roped together by banter, we enjoyed a beautiful view that reached to Pilot Peak, Nevada, in the crystal air. Wine, snacks and patter were passed around as we basked in the sun.

Stansbury Peak

By John Dawson

The hike started out with a level stroll through the desert plants, then up a couple of steep benches; by this time everyone was aware it was a warm day. A short way up a strange dead-end drainage, the scramble to the ridge began, with climbers widely scattered in the juniper. Miraculously nearly everyone found their way to the top. Eating lunch in the warm sun, it was found that the beer-can register was failing to protect the record of earlier visitors, so a plastic bag was contributed. Not many people visit this peak.

On the return trip, part of the group investigated an alternate route, on a ridge north of the initial route. This ridge was found to have a nebulous trail, ending in a driveable side road, and is probably easier than the up route used. The side road is 4 miles from the cross-roads on the south end of the island; this would be a good starting point for climbing the north peak.

Lookout Mountain

By Trudy Healy

Four determined hikers met in a drizzle. But when they started up Killyon Canyon, rain turned to snow. It snowed and graupeled for the rest of the hike. Occasional glimpses of nearby mountains or the Salt Lake Valley were obtained beneath dramatically dark clouds. Although the summit ridge was still deep in snow, walking was pretty good anyway. Can you believe it? The hikers agreed that it was a beautiful day!

Participants: Margaret Strickland, Thom Dickerson, Jim Piani, and Trudy Healy, leader.

Falling Arches Backpack

Anonymous

A trip that started the night before. Several of the group made it to Moab Friday night and ended up eating dinner on the floor of a local establishment (chairs had been broken in an earlier encounter).

Many slept by the river that night. In the morning the sun crashed down upon us, and we moved slowly toward the rendezvous at Arches National Park.

Our Leader layed down the law: no strong drink, no swearing, no stragglers, no borrowing and no knocking on tents or bivy bags after six in the morning. We knew it was going to be a memorable trip, and we were right.

We started up Courthouse Wash, investigated Ring Arch, and camped for the night at a spring on the way to Cedar Ridge. Only three people had the pleasure of sinking to their knees in quicksand.

Happy Hour was quickly under way by the time the last pack hit the ground. The mystical power of the "Black Death" soon claimed several victims. Goodies of all kinds were displayed and consumed. Many highly educational subjects were dismissed. A sleepy fire burned long into the night.

At dawn the embers were rekindled in a few who had never left the position in which they had fallen the night before.

One lonely scorpion wandered into camp looking for his or her mate, but soon departed on seeing the ugly giants of another world, called City.

After a leisurely breakfast we hiked (at one point waded) up a wash to Willow Flats. The wash was fantastic with deep pot holes and wild flowers to the delight of our two camera bugs. Several of the group frolicked in the cool celestial pools. New members were baptized and old ones refreshed.

At the point where the cars had been spotted we sipped the icy nectar of the desert dieties. Then took off for "Eye of the Whale" (or was it tail?) on foot, while others less hearty rode to within a quarter of a mile of the landmark.

The trip came to an end at Balanced Rock. All headed home happy, content, refreshed in body and soul, and eager to return in the future. A comment was heard: "Laws were made to be broken."

The unlawful were: Dorothy Holland, Tom Dickson, Jim Sweeny, Lois Shipway, Leo Fontaine, Nadine Fishbeck, Marlene Austin, Pat Klinger, Larry Hoskins, Teresa Overfield, Norm Fish, Curt Kennedy, Dave Morris, Bob Myers, led by Ann Cheves.

Lake Solitude

By John Dawson

The snow had been new only a day or two earlier, but the warm spring sun had already compacted it; it was firm and slippery. After a futile attempt with purple, red wax was found to work fairly well, with considerable slipping uphill and clumping downhill. As part of the lunch-time entertainment at the lake, there was a brief demonstration of downhill turning and falling, with one snowshoer as observer.

Participants were Gloria Gaugler, Nadine Fishbeck, George Miller, Joe Hall, and John Dawson.

What Do You Know About the Proposed I-215 Freeway?

By Denna Wright

The "Beltway" was planned approximately 20 years ago as a limited access highway around the city perimeter as a national defense route. Population shift in the Salt Lake Valley has rendered the old proposed "Beltway" obsolete. Cottonwood, Inc. was organized by residents in the Holladay-Cottonwood area to protect the integrity of a good portion of the Cottonwood area that would be severely damaged by intolerable noise, air and water pollution. In the past this group has protected zoning and limited commercial enterprises.

On April 18, 1979, attorneys for Cottonwood, Inc. filed for a preliminary injunction to enjoin the State Department of Transportation from beginning construction of the southeast quadrant. Federal Judge Bruce Jenkins has taken this request under advisement and is expected to give his ruling in the near future. Assuming that the preliminary injunction is granted, a trial will be held in the Federal court to decide the issues raised by the lawsuit.

What are the issues?

VIOLATION OF--the letter and spirit of THE NATIONAL ENVIRONMENTAL POLICY ACT OF 1969.

VIOLATION OF--THE NOISE CONTROL ACT as the Project will cause noise levels in excess of Federal standards and thereby endanger the health and welfare of persons near the Project.

VIOLATION OF--THE CLEAN AIR ACT by constructing a Federally funded highway which is not consistent with an approved "State Implementation Plan."

VIOLATION OF--THE DEPARTMENT OF TRANSPORTATION ACT OF 1968 and THE NATIONAL HISTORIC PREVENTION ACT inasmuch as the Project requires the "taking" of parklands at Little Cottonwood Regional Park, including the Wheeler Farm with increased noise, air pollution and alteration of the surrounding environment.

VIOLATION OF--THE FEDERAL AID HIGHWAY ACT OF 1968 for failure to comply with the required public hearings which consider the social, economic and environmental effects.

VIOLATION OF--THE FISH AND WILDLIFE COORDINATION ACT due to lack of consultation with the Fish and Wildlife Service on diversion of the Little Cottonwood Creek into a 300-foot flume over the roadway.

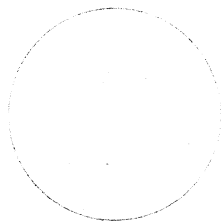

VIOLATION OF--THE FEDERAL WATER POLLUTION CONTROL ACT for failure to consider the pollution from storm sewers flowing into Little Cottonwood Creek.

FAILURE TO --comply with Federal statutes requiring preparation of a supplemental or new Environmental Impact Statement required by major modifications in design (fluming of Little Cottonwood Creek, depression of profile, etc.).

These points are merely a short summary of the grounds upon which our actions rest. They are supported by previous court cases in other parts of the country. Cottonwood, Inc. and its supporters must raise sufficient funds to ensure that the above points of law are properly contested in court by our attorneys with the assistance of the necessary expert witnesses.
