MESSAGE FROM THE PRESIDENT

William McCarvill

Thanks to our IT Director Bret Mathews the minutes of our monthly board minutes are now available for members. This comes after getting board meetings listed on the activity calendar and having the agenda posted by the Sunday before the board meeting on the activity calendar. Just a reminder the board meetings are the first Wednesday of the month.

If you visit the minutes you will also find our membership statistics which include total membership for each month as well as a number of other membership related breakouts. You will also see the financial statement for the month which includes what bills we paid and a listing of our various line items and what expenses and income was accrued in each account. We as a board work to develop a balanced budget for an upcoming year assuming that membership remains at its current level which is our major source of income.

For each line item you will see a number in parentheses. This is the budget for that item for the year. The financials for the month show how much is left for that item.

MESSAGE FROM YOUR MEMBERSHIP DIRECTOR

Eileen Giley

Our club is only as good as its members. For those of you who are beginners or new to the club, take time to get involved and then better yet reach out and organize an activity. There are mentors aplenty out there to help you. If we can be of assistance, please don't hesitate to contact us.

See you on the Trail.

Wouldn't you like more space to store your WMC gear?

CONSERVATION UPDATES: VOLUNTEER TRAIL PATROL

PHOTOS AND TRIP REPORT BY BRUCE CHRISTENSON

Saturday June 27th was the first day of Wasatch Mountain Club and United States Forest Service joint pilot program of volunteer trail patrol in the Wasatch Cash National Forest. The goal of the program is to meet the public on the trails and promote national forest and water shed protection. Rangers usually go in pairs on trail patrol and by using a volunteer with a ranger it can double the area covered and people contacted. Three WMC members, Kristen Thomas, David Andreyak and Bruce Christenson met with the coordinator for the program, Ranger Brett Jeppesen for a short training session on personal safety and interacting with the public. The four of them left for Brighton and Lake Mary and Cathryn Pass area for on the job training in interacting with other hikers and talking about hiking and camping etiquette in the national forest and reminding them of watershed restrictions in the area. Three other rangers joined the group for lunch above Lake Cathryn. The stories they could tell! It was the consensus of all the volunteers that it was a wonderful day hiking in our beautiful Wasatch Mountains and spending time in the company great ranger mentors to do a small part in preserving our mountain heritage and drinking water.

HOME AND CAMPFIRES

FROM SUZANNE JANSEN

For years, Rambler outings mention campfires via the Wasatch Mountain Club excursions because it is what we have previously learned from our families and friends. What most people aren't aware of is that a great deal of research has been done determining campfires and home fireplace fires trigger diseases and disorders that can last a life time. Another reason to stop building campfires comes from Leave No Trace Center for Outdoor Ethics as campfires damage the back country where there are not fire rings, mounds, or fire pans(<http://lnt.org/learn/principle.5>).

Last February I had the opportunity to listen to Dr. Brian Moench of the Utah Physicians for a Healthy Environment. Before his lecture and presentation, I too would build and participate in campfires, but no more. From the Utah Physicians for a Healthy Environment website which Dr. Moench is a member of comes the knowledge that the particulates from house and camp fires have a large radius of several miles as they are in the parts per million. Wood smoke pollution in the winter is equivalent to air pollution from cars. Wood smoke is made up of 200 chemicals and heavy metals and is 12 times as carcinogenic as second hand cigarette smoke. The air pollution from both home and campfires enters the lungs and settles in the deepest recesses of the lungs where it settles to cause cancer, Diabetes I and II, breast, lung, and brain, and prostate cancers. The effects of home and campfires in fetuses is particularly shocking effecting for life smaller brain size and decreased intelligence. From the Utah Physicians for a Healthy Environment website cites several articles such as Talbott E, et al. Fine particulate matter and the risk of autism spectrum disorder. Environmental Research Volume 140, July 2015, pages 414-420. Talbott E, et al. reveal an increase in dementia, Alzheimer's, and or Parkinson's disease as well as Autism Spectrum Disorder.

Campfires should be limited to emergency situations for cooking food, warmth, et cetera... prevention of hypothermia and not just because it is what my friends and family have always done. I am asking you personally to take a stand against lighting home fires and campfires because of the detrimental effect to health.

BUDIGS' GRANDE RONDE RIVER TRIP

TRIP REPORT BY KELLY BEUMER

On June 4, 17 of us, including three kids and a teenager, set out for Minam OR, to float the Grande Ronde Scenic River under the guidance of Michael and Dianne Budig. Our boats were a motley collection of cats, duckies, rafts and fat cats, all of which worked quite well on this fast paced but relatively easy river. We spent 5 days and nights on the river before our takeout at Heller Bar, in Washington, and arrival home at 4am the following morning! The adult roster of the trip included the Budigs, Kelly and Martin Beumer, Carroll Mays and Vivien Lee, Rick Thompson, Larry Hall, Greg Clark, Susan Renau, Aymara Jimenez, John Marks and Cory Fisher.

The weather was perfect for most of the days we floated, cool in the mornings and evenings, and comfortable during the day, shading to hot on the last couple days. This turned out to be ideal weather for not only boating, but water fights and Frisbee! The mixed ages, with the youngest kid at 10, turned out to give everyone an excuse to be a little looser and sillier than they might have been otherwise.

Meals were great, ranging from the traditional Egg McMuffin to excellent homemade chicken curry. Nobody walked away from a meal hungry! One day, we stopped at Boggins oasis for burgers and shakes. It was 100 degrees that day, making the ice cream even more welcome. The friendly owners were a little overwhelmed to see 17 of us walk in, and recruited the kids to help set tables, carry pitchers, and distribute water.

The scenery started out alpine, and over the course of the week, shaded to desert. Campsites were generally open but shaded, giving plenty of room for tents and Frisbee. We saw a big variety of birds, otters, deer, and even a bear, briefly. One day, we were visited by a small rattler. I think he was more afraid of us, than we were of him!

The Grande Ronde starts out fast paced, with very few eddies, and busy water, but not until the last day did we hit rapids big enough to scout. This gave beginners and kids alike opportunities to enhance their skills, but still left plenty of time for water fights and swimming and a rope swing found by Rick Thompson. Even though it's a longer than usual drive, this was a great river, and I can't wait to return!

JACK'S MT. TO CASTLE QUARRY

TRIP REPORT AND PHOTOS BY AKIKO KAMIMURA

Bruce Christenson organized a Jack's Mt hike on May 23, Saturday. We took the trail which had been developed recently to get to the mail boxes. Then we hiked off-trail and went to a small "arch" made by piles of rocks. Bruce took a group photo there.

Bruce Christenson organized a hike at Jack' Mt on May 23, 2015.

Leslie Woods and Karen Perkins "led" the group while Bruce stayed with beginner or slow hikers.

We went to the mail boxes first (left). From the mail boxes, we hiked off trail most of the times – Barb on the way from the mail boxes (right).

NEWFOUNDLAND MOUNTAINS - DESERT PEAK

TRIP REPORT AND PHOTOS BY JULIE KILGORE

On May 2nd, Stanley Chiang organized a hike to Desert Peak (not "Deseret"), the high point of the Newfoundland Mountain range.

Hike Adventure Buddies: Stanley Chiang, Steve Duncan, Kelly Phanco, Cassie Badowsky, Julie Kilgore, Kathy Bell, and Matt Ripperton;

Where are the Newfoundlands, you ask?

Check out this "you are here" blue dot in the middle of the Salt Flats. (right). THAT is the high point of the Newfoundland Mountains.

How do you get there, you ask?

Directions: Beyond the superfund site, through the bombing range (Stanley in front of sign, far right), past the mine, and across 26 miles of the rail line service road where one is just as likely to pick up a "nail" or two (bottom right). Stanley had called the BLM a few days before to get information about crossing the salt flats along that rail line service road, but it wasn't until we had the railroad crew blocked when we were fixing our flat tire that we really felt it was ok for us to be there.

The drive to and from the hike was quite literally half (or more) of the adventure! Little did we know that this is the ONLY way to get a peek at the infamous pumps that were built after the floods of 83 (opposite page, top), still standing ready and waiting to drain the Great Salt Lake the next time THAT happens.

Oh yes, and then there was the hike. I would rank the hike as a MOD-, passing some interesting remnants of the mining days (Stanley and red shirt (opposite page, bottom left). As we approached the summit, we had a great visual of the sea of salt that surrounded us (The whole team, opposite page, bottom right). And when we were off the mountain, we all crossed our fingers as we made our way back across the adventurous route that got us there. Thankfully, no more flat tires!!

FAINT TRAILS IN THE WASATCH

FTW 97. Emma Mine, Part IV

In the last article in this series it was stated that the final reorganization of the Emma Silver Mining Company, Limited, in 1900 was for the purpose of selling the Emma mine, and that it was sold in 1908. Actually, in 1906 William M. Wantland, who was an officer in the AltaFlagstaff and Consolidated Flagstaff mining companies, entered into an agreement with the British Emma company to buy its Little Cottonwood mining properties for $50,000. With the first payment due in three months, Wantland apparently had trouble raising the funds. After two threemonth extensions, he gave up and accumulated a group of claims on the north slopes above the Emma, including the former Winsor group of mines: Savage, Montezuma, Hiawatha and Last Chance. With these, and seven other claims in the same vicinity under his control, he and a small group of local and eastern investors formed the Emma Copper Mining Company. The name showed their intent to reach and exploit an extension of the Emma ore body. The route to their destination was through the Flagstaff tunnel, better known as the Tom Moore tunnel, located some 1000 feet west of the Bay City. At a point approximately 2000 feet in that tunnel they started a drift toward the northeast, heading toward their properties and the rich ore they expected to find there. Work was carried on for two years with frequent reports of striking ore, but without any ore shipments. The financial panic of 1907 placed the company into dire financial straits forcing it to halt its operations. Some of its debts were paid through loans made by the directors, but legal matters and dissension in the ranks of stockholders kept the mine inactive for another two years. At that time the company's articles of association were amended to allow assessment of stock; the resulting assessment allowed remaining debts to be paid and the mine was reopened for a resumption of operations. However, little was accomplished other than small shipments by leasers. And so the Emma Copper Company remained in a state of suspended animation

Meanwhile, in 1907 William Groesbeck and Lyman R Martineau entered into an agreement with the Emma Silver Mining Co., Limited, to purchase the Emma properties, this time for $25,000. Groesbeck, with his father Nicholas and several siblings, had been involved in the filing of the Flagstaff claim in 1870, and now was a well-known name in both mining and real estate circles. Martineau, a banker and stockman from Logan, was involved in many commercial enterprises, including mining. These men were able to complete the purchase and with several local investors incorporated the Old Emma Mines Company to hold the properties. The company worked the mine until 1911 when one of its incorporators, Jesse Knight, took control and moved its headquarters to Provo where he lived. Knight had a reputation as a successful mine owner and operator, so great things were expected for the Emma. However, almost immediately he halted the operations and the mine went dormant.

With but little activity other than some work by leasers and some stock assessments, the two Emma companies idled through several years until early 1915. Then a series of events extending over several years shook the Emma companies out of their lethargy and redefined their very existence. It began with a spurt of activity in the mining stocks.

Especially noticeable were the stocks of Emma Copper and Alta Consolidated, the latter mine located farther up the canyon in Grizzly Gulch. At the beginning of the year their stocks were listed at 1¢ and 31/2¢ respectively. By the beginning of March they had risen to 11¢ and 18-1/2¢. The increase was largely caused by large blocks of stock being traded on eastern markets. At that same time the Emma Copper Company was reorganized and instituted a new campaign of development work under the supervision of A. O. Jacobson, formerly of the Columbus Consolidated mine and now one of the prominent miners at Alta. On the heels of that news came word that much of the activity in the local stocks was attributed to George Graham Rice, wellknown mining promoter and editor of the New York Mining Age, a weekly publication in which he had been touting Little Cottonwood mines. As if to emphasize his interest in Utah mines, Rice came to Salt Lake City during the second week of April, where he was surrounded by brokers and miners, all listening attentively to his every word. Several months later, at the request of Rice, Charles S. Herzig, a prominent mining engineer, arrived in Salt Lake City and spent the summer examining the mines and geology of the AltaCottonwood district. Shortly before his departure in September, he was made a Director in the Emma Copper Mining

In November of 1915 A. O. Jacobson and associates took a two year option on the Emma mine from the Old Emma Mining Company. He immediately put men to work cleaning and repairing the underground workings. However, his intention was obviously not to work the mine, for a few months later he was in New York looking for a buyer. He was successful in his search, because by mid 1916 he sold the option to Charles F. Belser, an associate of George Graham Rice. This gave Rice control of the Old Emma, and through stock purchases he also held a majority interest in the Emma Copper Company.

Immediately Charles S. Herzig was sent to Salt Lake City to inspect the Emma Copper properties "for the eastern stockholders." Following his inspection Emma Copper took a lease on the Old Emma properties in order to conduct explorations from the Bay City tunnel. Incidentally, at that same time Herzig was made vice president of the Emma Copper Company. The explorations, which were to prove important to future work at the Emma as well as much of the Alta Cottonwood area, and the people involved will be discussed in due course. However, for the moment it is important to note that the Old Emma Leasing Company, a Delaware corporation, was formed to take over the lease. This made Emma Copper and Old Emma Leasing partners in the exploratory work in the Bay City tunnel. This association did not last long, however, for almost immediately steps were taken to consolidate the various Emma companies into the Emma Consolidated Mining Company, incorporated in Delaware in October of 1916. This company did not receive any of the real estate in Little Cottonwood Canyon; instead it was a holding company, controlling the properties by its owning more than 98 and 85 per cent of the outstanding capitalization of the Emma Copper and the Old Emma Mines companies, respectively. The home offices of all these companies were moved to New York City. The Emma Consolidated company, with George Graham Rice as its president, worked the Old Emma mine and shipped ore throughout 1917 and claimed large earnings, but charged all expenses to the Old Emma company. The minority stockholders in the latter company reaped none of the rewards from the profitable shipments in spite of the fact that the ore was taken from their mine. After they negotiated with company officers without result, they filed suit claiming misappropriation of funds. They requested a receiver be appointed, which the court granted, but ironically the man appointed to this duty was the vice president of the Emma Consolidated company. In spite of the seeming conflict of interest, the receiver proposed a method to combine all three companies – Emma Copper, Old Emma, and Emma Consolidated – into a new locally owned organization.

The previous chapters give only a superficial account of what actually happened. The details would take many, many pages. What precipitated the closing of this chapter in the life of the Emma mine was the indictment of George Graham Rice in New York City on charges of larceny in his brokerage business. This came as a shock to many of the brokers, investors and miners in Salt Lake City. They found it difficult to believe the man they admired had feet of clay. But this was not his first brush with the law. As a young man he spent time in the Elmira, New York, correctional institution, followed several years later with a sentence in the New York penitentiary at Sing Sing, both on convictions for larceny. In the latter case his victim was his father, a successful dealer in furs. It was, in fact, his father who pressed the charges that sent the young man to prison, suggesting the most recent theft was the last of many. Upon his release from prison, to hide his past he changed his name from Jacob Simon Herzig to George Graham Rice. After another brush with the law on a horse racing tipster scheme, he went into mining stocks in Nevada until he was faced with federal charges of using the mails to defraud, and served time in the Blackwell's Island penitentiary for that. He then started the New York Mining Age publication that led him into manipulating the Emma mine and its several companies.

Mining engineer Charles S. Herzig was his brother, which was why Rice called on his expertise when starting to promote Utah mines. The brother had also been involved in the previous Nevada mining scheme, but kept his contribution on a technical level. In both cases he left for other jobs after recognizing and disapproving of his brother's nefarious

The explorations that were mentioned, and the people involved are an important and significant part of the Emma mine history. They will be addressed in the next article in the series.

	Organizer: Angela Vincent 801-281-3160 avince182@yahoo.com
	This will be a 380 mile ride from Grand Junction, CO to Denver, CO (about 55 awesome miles per day.) Enjoy MSD days in the saddle with plenty of sightseeing and time for enjoying gorgeous scenery. A large portion of the trip will be on bike paths and there are a few steep climbs over passes (McClure, Vail, and Loveland Passes--a total of over 24,000 ft of climbing for the trip). You should therefore plan on riding a touring bike or a rig with very low gearing. This is a self-supported credit-card trip (we'll be staying in hotels each night). The trip itself will be limited to 10 riders and I guesstimate that it will cost around $500 per rider for food, transportation and lodging. Trip includes 6 days of riding and 1 day off in the middle with travel days on each end. Registration required and a deposit of $100 due NLT Mar 1. Contact Angie for more information if you're interested in this adventure.

You do need to plan on wet feet for three days, hiking in the water in this beautiful canyon. We will drive down Thursday after work (actually, if there are two other canyoneers who were interested, I would like to go down Wednesday and do a technical canyon into Parunaweap before the backpack), and then return home late Sunday night.

	Organizer: Chris 801-776-1031
	Put in approximately 1 September 2015 dependent upon permit drawing. Glaciers, Grizzly Bears, Mountains and Icebergs amidst a profusion of wild flowers. This 16 day trip will have multiple layover days for mountain-based exploration with an emphasis on mountaineering. Research this trip thoroughly prior to committing. This is a Serious trip, 2 notches above a Grand Canyon Trip. Estimated cost $3-4K based on your personal arrival in Whitehorse Yukon. $300 nonrefundable deposit will be deposited into the trip escrow account. Passport and Drysuit required. Team members need to be 100% committed to hard work. This is an expedition not a vacation. In case of road closure, glacial surge, landslide etc. the Tatshenshini River is the backup river. Participants need to provide a written or verbal river résumé with specialized skills listing and watercraft specifics. This is a once-in-a-lifetime sensory overload experience on the most spectacular river trip in North America. All equipment needs to be in Salt Lake City Utah approximately 1 August 2015 to be broken down and packaged for long haul truck transport to Canada. Three weeks of your schedule needs to be reserved for this unique endeavor. Contact Chris @ 801-776-1031. The last time this trip was listed it filled within one month.

The goal is to get to the summit in two hours and to complete the loop in less than three hours. You can copy the following link into your browser to see the data, you can also download from the website the GPS data and use Google Earths. https://connect.garmin.com/activity/569377143 The elevation gain is about 3000 feet, the loop is 4,7 miles long. Go lite as possible, this loop is considered a trail run, not a climb or a hike.
Sep 3 Thu – Sep 7 Mon	Backpacking Death Hollow – mod+ – 30.0 mi
	Meet: Registration required
	Organizer: Rick Thompson gone2moab@hotmail.com
	This is a tough 4 day backpack, which besides hiking, involves some wading, ropework, and some swimming, in a deep and remote canyon. The first water is roughly 11 miles in, starting right off with a long first day, from the top of the canyon on the Hells Backbone Rd. We will drive down on Thursday, hike FSS, and exit on Monday, Labor Day, coming out the sneak route to a spur off of highway 12. Although there is no actual rappelling, canyoneering experience is a decided plus, with chockstone drops up to 12 feet, and climbs to 5.4, with a pack that must be fully waterproofed. I have cancelled this trip twice before due to the weather, as you are exposed in a long deep canyon for multiple days, a clean forecast is required. A strenuous trip, for a small group, but the reward is huge.

Sep 4 Fri – Sep 7 Mon	Toquima Range Car Camp – msd – Moderate pace
	Meet: Registration required Organizer: Donn Seeley 801-706-0815 donn@xmission.com At 11,949 feet, Mt Jefferson in the Toquima Range is the sixth-highest peak in Nevada. We'll visit this peak as well as the (not quite) ghost town of Belmont, the Devil's Punch Bowl, the Twin Creeks of the neighboring Toiyabe Range, and other attractions in the area. Feel free to arrive on either Thursday or Friday and meet up in remotest Nevada.
Sep 11 Fri	Borah Peak, Idaho High Point Day Hike, 12,662 Ft – msd – 7.0 mi Out & Back – 5500' ascent – Moderate pace
	Meet: Registration required Organizer: Dennis Goreham 801-550-5119 dgoreham@gmail.com Let's do the highest peak in Idaho, Borah Peak. This is a heavy use peak so we will do it on Friday and avoid the Saturday crowds. We'll meet at an undeveloped campground (outhouse only) on the banks of the Lost River, on US 93 about a mile south of Mackay Reservoir and about 2 miles north of Mackay on Thursday afternoon and do the hike early on Friday. This is a very steep hike with a bunch of scrambling and exposure, especially on the so-called Chicken Out Ridge. I plan to do another of the Idaho high points on Saturday so we will camp again Friday night. Plan to eat and motel it in Mackay on Saturday night to support local businesses. Drive home on Sunday. Limit of 8. Contact Dennis to register and determine meeting and carpooling specifics, and motel suggestion.
Sep 12 Sat – Sep 19 Sat	Grand Teton Car Camp – mod
	Meet: Registration required Organizer: Aaron Jones 801-467-3532 ajonesmvp@msn.com Enjoy beautiful autumn scenery, bugling elk, and amazingly beautiful hikes. 	Meet: 8:00 am at Little Cottonwood Canyon Park & Ride Organizer: Ed Hemphill 801-698-4673 edwin.hemphill@comcast.net A nice relaxing hike on an early fall day. I expect to hike at a moderate pace, but would like the group to stay together.
Sep 18 Fri – Sep 20 Sun	Backpack The Zion Narrows – mod – 16.5 mi Shuttle
	Meet: Registration required Organizer: Rick Thompson gone2moab@hotmail.com Only 16.5 miles, over two days, in one of the most beautiful places on earth. But a fairly serious endeavor, as you are walking in water, from 1 to 4 feet deep, on slippery rocks you can't see, which are like greased bowling balls. Spreading it out over two days makes it more enjoyable, and gives you time to relax and take pictures, whereas the one day hike turns into a death march before you get out. The down side, and there is one, is that if you are going to spend the night in the middle somewhere you are now talking about carrying overnight gear and provisions, which means you now have a real pack on your back, that is a) heavy, and b) needs to be waterproofed. Or at least everything in it. The trick is to go ultralight- every pound you put on your back decreases the fun level, and increases the chance of potential mishap or injury. Just a little overnight backpack, in an incredible place. But must be taken seriously. Getting a campsite permit for the hike is a definite challenge, which is why i scheduled this for after the start of school. Since Saturday is the toughest day to get a permit for, I am prepared to drive down Thursday and get a Friday night permit if necessary.
Sep 24 Thu – Sep 30 Wed	White Water Rafting- Canyonlands – class IV – 118.0 mi – 260' ascent
	Meet: Registration required Organizer: Bob Cady 801-274-0250 rcady@xmission.com 7 days from Mineral Botom on the Green River to Hite on Powell Reservoir. Four days of floating through beautiful canyons, one day of very good rapids, 2 days of floating down to Hite unless I can find a outboard motor to rent somewhere. Weather should still be nice though not as hot as summer.

Sep 26 Sat	South Tent Mountain Day Hike – mod- – 3.0 mi Out & Back – 1000' ascent – Moderate pace
	Meet: Registration required
	Organizer: John Hamann 575-437-6303 john.hamann@us.af.mil
	South Tent Mountain is 11,285' high, and is the highest point in the Roan Cliffs. It is located east of Ephraim. South Tent will be a relatively easy and short Class 2 hike if we can drive all the way in. We will need 4WD vehicles to reach the trailhead. We will meet at an appropriate location in SLC on Saturday morning, and drive to the trailhead. A good link for South Tent Mountain is below.
Sep 27 Sun	Strawberry Peak Day Hike – ntd – 4.0 mi Out & Back – 1500' ascent – Moderate pace
	Meet: Registration required
	Organizer: John Hamann 575-437-6303 john.hamann@us.af.mil
	Strawberry Peak is 10,335' high, and is the highest point in the Wasatch Plateau. It is located about 40 miles east of Spanish Fork. Strawberry Peak is a road walk. A road gets to within 50' of the top. I will probably walk the last two miles or so of the road to make it more of a hike, but you can drive up if you want. We will need 4WD or high clearance vehicles to make it all the way in. My plan is to meet in SLC on Sunday morning at an appropriate location, and then drive to the trailhead. A good link for Strawberry Peak is below.
Sep 27 Sun	Day Hike/roberts Horn – 10.0 mi Out & Back – 4200' ascent – Moderate pace

	Robert's Horn is a prominent peak above Aspen Grove, Sundance. The views from the top rival Mt Timpanogoes with less effort and energy to reach the summit. This time of year the aspen and maple should be starting to turn. Minor scrambling. Dogs welcome.

Oct 3 Sat – Oct 27 Tue	Grand Canyon Trip White Water Rafting – class IV+
	Meet: Registration required
	Organizer: Steven Pace 801-363-8190 user031147@aol.com
	GRAND CANYON Trip will consume essentially all of October, 2015. Launch Sat. 10/3. Take out at Pearce 10/27. Commercial shuttles, may try to do most food in SLC. If you're interested send me an email and phone contact info and indicate relevant river experience and potential boating and any common gear you could bring by 3/2/15. A meeting/Skype session will be held in SLC later in March. Initial deposits will be due and gear lists, vehicles, participants, menus, etc. will be settled by mid-June or earlier. My preference will be for folks with big water and extensive desert camping experience, who are not "logistically complicated", i.e. can help with prep, do not require special meals, who within reason might donate common-use gear to the effort, etc. I am the permit holder.

Oct 3 Sat	Kayak/canoe On The Great Salt Lake – flat water
	Meet: 10:00 am at Antelope Island Marina Organizer: Pam Stalnaker 801-425-9957 canoepam@yahoo.com As part of the Antelope Island Multi-Sport Weekend, we will again be having a canoe/kayak trip on the Great Salt Lake. Some boats and PFDs are available for your use with advance registration. If you own your own boat, just come equipped with boat, PFD, paddle, and some water and snacks. We will meet at the Marina at 10:00. Note this trip is dependent on weather; in high winds the GSL is no place for inexperienced paddlers, but it can be a wonderful place. Note that there is another session at 1:00. If you want to borrow a boat, you need to pre-register with Pam at canoepam@yahoo.com. Note a number of people will be camping at Bridger Bay Campground Friday and Saturday night. Feel free to get a campground; reservations are recommended. There is a fee for day use at the park, but the camping fee is only slightly more and includes access.

Oct 9 Fri – Oct 11 Sun	Canyoneering 201 – mod+
	Meet: Registration required Organizer: Rick Thompson gone2moab@hotmail.com So, you've been on the 101 trip, and you're looking to learn some more as well as step it up into some more varied, strenuous and challenging canyons. This is a trip for you. Back to North Wash, where there are dozens more great canyons, for another round. Drive down after work friday (some of us may go down a day early, on thursday, to get an extra day and canyon), do canyons on saturday and sunday, and then come home sunday night.

Oct 17 Sat	Rappelling Class For Canyoneering – ntd+ Meet: Registration required Organizer: Rick Thompson gone2moab@hotmail.com Learn to rappel, and open the door to all kinds of new experiences and places. With proper instruction it is safe and easy- your fears are quickly banished. Whether you have never done it, or did once long ago and are not sure you remember, this is a great opportunity to learn not only how to do it, but also to become comfortable and safe on rope. We are using the new club canyoneering ropes so there will be a 10$ per person charge for this class, in an effort to help pay for these expensive ropes. Dogwood is the first picnic area in Big Cottonwood Canyon, just 1 mile up the canyon, on the right. Park on the highway to avoid a picnic area use fee, cross the bridge, walk thru the site, up canyon, and follow a trail 50 yards past the last table to the climbing wall, and sign in on the Club sheet. A harness, helmet, leather gloves, locking carabiner and a descending device are needed, I have a few extra harnesses for folks who do not have and are unable to beg, borrow, or steal one, for a 5$ rental/equipment replacement fee, but you need to make those arrangements with me in advance, as there is a limited number available. If you are renting gear from me, you should try and be there 15 minutes early, by 12:45, so we can get you outfitted before the class. This class is held in the afternoon to allow you to attend the Black Diamond Fall Sale/Parking lot swap meet that morning (800am) to hook up with some good gear, cheap, in advance.
Oct 23 Fri – Oct 25 Sun	Introduction To Technical Canyoneering – mod Meet: Registration required Organizer: Rick Thompson gone2moab@hotmail.com If you have seen those beautiful and hauntingly mysterious pictures taken in the twisty and sinewy bowels of the earth, and wondered where they were, and what it took to go there, this is your chance to find out. The North Wash is a great place to get started and learn some of the basics of canyoneering, with experienced and trained guidance- there is something for everyone in these wonderful southern utah sandstone slots. We will drive down Friday after work, and do canyons Saturday and Sunday, returning home Sunday night. If this is your first trip, you need to have taken one of the club rappeling classes as a prerequisite.(there is another on October 17).

The party is BYOB and POTLUCK: Be sure to bring food to add to the table. Awards for the Best Costumes in the categories of Best Historic Period Costumes, Scariest, Sexiest and Funniest Costumes will be given. A horrifying piñata will also be smashed by the little people present; children are of course Welcome. A $7.00 per person cover charge will be collected at the door; children are free. The meteors are often bright and intensely colored. We are blessed this year with no moon illumination to cause interference. Temperatures at the park during December are typically 23-45 degrees and .44 inch of precipitation is typical in December. During the day we will do hikes that are in accord with the winter conditions. In the evening we will enjoy everything that Moab has to offer and at night we can be treated to a spectacular celestial event. Motel rates are very reasonable at this time and the crowds have yet to arrive.
